

ALAIN MAURY

Born in 1946, French national
Architect, Ecole Spéciale d'Architecture, Paris. Graduated in 1972
City Planner, Sciences Po, Paris. Graduated in 1979

After a ten-year practice as Architect in Paris, I moved on to the new computer technologies applied to the construction sector, particularly the CAD and 3D systems.

I then founded and managed a small enterprise aimed at the promotion of these new technologies and their appropriation by the building professionals.

Subsequently, I became the Computer Technology Director of Ingerop, a leading construction engineering group where I developed in particular the concurrent engineering methods.

Presently, I am in charge of the Mediaconstruct association which brings together for 20 years now all the French organizations of building professionals concerned by the ICT issues.

Since 1996, Mediaconstruct became the French Speaking Chapter of the IAI, renamed later BuildingSMART.
